As companies strive to enhance their shareholder value, especially during volatile times in the economy, there arises a greater need to understand financial information – this includes the balance sheet, profit and loss account and cash flow statement. Those not trained in finance often encounter difficulties in making sound business decisions due to a lack of proper understanding of financial information and the related implications. This may lead to adverse effects on shareholder value.

This course aims to equip participants with the skills to confidently discuss financial information, gain overview of main financial concepts a business leader should be aware of and to be able to read and understand a set of financial statements. Learning will be facilitated through the use of illustrative examples and case studies.

Participants will gain deeper appreciation for basic accounting principles and the usefulness of financial statements. Participants will also be equipped with the knowledge to use financial information provided to them to make better short-term or long-term decisions in managing their business.
