Governance, Risk and Compliance

Corporate Legal Compliance Program and Contract Management System

1

Legal compliance is different from obeying the law. The former is based on management principles by applying PDCA (Plan-Do-Check-Act) and helping all personnel establish a clear conformity on the concept of laws and regulations that they should comply with regarding their business; it can effectively prove that the business owner has performed the duties of a good administrator to the best of his abilities, thus relieving him from having to personally assume all legal responsibilities by himself. We are able to tailor our program and provide consultation to enterprises on important laws and regulations that are currently or about to be implemented. In addition, our team can provide a contract management system that can effectively improve the completeness of risk management and organization processes for our clients. We have years of experience in serving our clients in the financial industry and providing legal compliance solutions, including emerging legal compliance issues such as principles of financial service industries to treat clients fairly, legal compliance analysis projects for the whole company and data sharing between financial institutions.

Planning and consultation of AML/CFT management system

3

Together with Deloitte & Touche Consulting Co., we help domestic large financial holding companies, banks, securities, insurance companies and listed companies establish their AML/CFT management system, assisting finance industries in effectively complying with the Money Laundering Control Act, the Counter-Terrorism Financing Act and relevant subsidiary legislation from management aspect.

Planning and Consulting of Personal Information Management System and CBPR Cross Border Privacy Protection Rules

2

Together with Deloitte & Touché Consulting Co., we help domestic large financial holding companies, banks, securities, insurance companies and listed companies establish their personal information management system (PIMS), assisting many corporations to obtain privacy rights certification (BS10012 and TIPIPAS). We have also assisted corporations to obtain certificates of CBPR cross-border privacy rules under the APEC framework.

Planning and consultation of anti-corruption

4

By leveraging international experience from Deloitte around the world, we assist corporations in preventing anti-corruption and insider trading in effectively complying with relevant criminal laws. In addition, we help corporations obtain ISO37001 certification.

Deloitte Legal can provide suitable legal tech tools for consultation services for corporations.

Legal Process

Deloitte Legal can assist companies to evaluate and reallocate internal legal processes, including client/supplier contracts management, and legal compliance planning and consultation.

1

Legal Management Consulting (LMC)

The legal department nowadays faces a more strict, complex and diverse regulatory environment. To face challenges resulting from the globalization benefits, the rapid development of technologies and the expansion of the company scales and complexity, the workload of the legal department is continuing to increase. Under such circumstances, it is necessary for the legal department to reconsider its workflow and increase the efficiency of its work to create value for the company.

The LMC services are developed by lawyers and technical consultants, using commonly used modules, frameworks and systems to assist our clients to improve their work efficiency of the legal department and satisfy the demand of the company.

Legal Risk and Matter Management

Our team can collaborate with the legal department of the company to evaluate the operating risk of the company and identify the potential legal risk and framework and planned solutions in advance to prevent major legal risks from happening, such as litigation, regulatory changes, contract management and privacy data protection issues.

Deloitte Private Legal Services

Family business succession and wealth management

1

We provide feasible structure planning for family business and wealth succession and assist in preparing legal documents. Differences in the terms of legal documents such as trust agreements, share purchase agreements, gift contracts, wills, and amendments to the Articles of Incorporation of close companies, etc., may have significant impact on the intended outcome. In addition, recognition of substance-over-form by tax authorities and trends in international anti-avoidance, etc., may also cause unforeseen costs for wealth planning. Our team can assist in integrating the legal, tax and financial advisory resources of Deloitte Taiwan to provide comprehensive consultant services.

Trusts, foundations and close companies

3

Our team provides customized legal solutions concerning domestic or cross-border trusts, foundations, and close companies. We also assist clients in the implementation of setting up phases, review relevant contracts and terms and share practical experience. We have strong cooperation with foreign lawyers to provide clients with insightful advice in complying with local laws and regulations.

Family governance and family constitution

Through a professional team, we conduct interviews with family members to understand their real intentions, provide legal analysis and advice, and assist in formulating family constitution that embodies the family's recognized values for future compliance and implementation. Declaring family's goals and values and setting up the code of conduct for family members with the family constitution not only integrate the interest of the family members and promote unity, but also help to uphold mutual coexistence and co-prosperity between family and business and achieve effective family governance.

Gift contracts and wills

Our team leverages the legal and tax professionals of Deloitte to assist family members with wealth succession planning. We also provide legal consultation concerning terms and conditions for gift and will, and assist in liaising with trust institutions and notary publics to facilitate the execution of personal wills to sustain the legacy of family wealth.

Legal Service for Japanese Enterprises

We have a fully-dedicated team whose members are fluent in Japanese and can provide clients with the most comprehensive legal services. Aside from registration as Gaikokuho Jimu Bengoshi (foreign affairs attorney) in Japan, we also have lawyers who have obtained master's degrees from well-known Japanese universities and have extensive working experience in Japan. Our lawyers are not only experienced and have excellent knowledge of Japanese but are also quite familiar with Japanese business culture and can provide Japanese business clients with the most efficient, professional and comprehensive legal services.

Japanese/Taiwanese enterprises M&A and investment in Taiwan

1

We provide services for Japanese and Taiwanese enterprises on corporate mergers and acquisitions. In the early stages, we offer legal consultation, investment structure analysis and investment strategy planning, legal due diligence, and other services. In the middle and late stages, we provide assistance in the review with regard to merger-related contracts, as well as consultation on matters related to subsequent contract negotiations. At the same time, we can also assist in registration or application for permits with the competent authority in response to mergers. In addition, for Japanese enterprises planning to invest in Taiwan, we can provide support in evaluating the structure and type of investment in Taiwan as well as provide legal consulting services on related matters such as registration or application permits required for investment, and application of work permits and residence certificates for foreigners for subsequent work in Taiwan.

Legal service on labor laws

Because our team members have extensive knowledge of Japanese corporate culture and also understand the differences between Japanese and Taiwanese corporate cultures, we can integrate both Japanese and Taiwanese corporate thinking when providing services related to labor laws. Utilizing the best method to explain the similarities and differences in the handling of labor relations between Japanese and Taiwanese companies, we are able to conduct professional and comprehensive analysis of various labor law related issues to provide clients with the most extensive labor legal services.

Commercial legal service and consultation on various legal issues

We are able to provide legal services related to multinational business activities of Japanese and Taiwanese companies, including consultation on related laws and regulations such as the Company Act and Securities and Exchange Act, reviewing or drafting company articles of association or other internal rules, drafting proposals for shareholders or board of directors meetings, and assisting in the formulation of strategies for such meetings. We also offer assistance in handling bankruptcy, reorganization, liquidation and other procedures of companies, contract review and drafting services, and provide clients with various countermeasures and handling methods for lawful and effective management of the company. In addition, we also provide legal consultation on Fair Trade Act, Personal Data Protection Act, Consumer Protection Act, Intellectual Property Law, etc., as well as provide assistance to clients in handling sanctions or letter orders from competent authorities, and in the resolution of business disputes, including assistance in settlement negotiations, mediation, arbitration, litigation, and other related dispute resolution services.
