Start

Texans strive to be the biggest and the best at anything we do. Especially in the bustling and booming North Texas region.

Centered on the sprawling Dallas-Fort Worth metropolitan area, North Texas is experiencing massive growth. The state's largest metro area has a population of more than 7 million residents and is home to four of the fastest-growing counties in the nation.¹

Colossal growth

A robust transportation infrastructure, temperate weather, and welcoming business environment make North Texas a popular destination for hundreds of companies across more than 20 industries—and Deloitte is right in the middle of the action.

Our skilled, experienced team of nearly 2,800 professionals seems to have mirrored the region's rapid growth. We're the largest professional services organization in the Dallas Metroplex² and have earned a strong reputation among CFOs and executive leadership within the business community.

Our clients are public and private, start-ups, and legacy firms—and Deloitte maintains a talented and multifaceted workforce to address their varied business needs.

Some of us have deep roots here. Some found our way to North Texas from afar. All of us are proud of the important role we play in helping build and sustain this region's growth and prosperity.

On the rise in North Texas

Ours is the No. 1 metropolitan area in the United States for job growth, and it's easy to understand why. More than 200 companies from 40 countries have their US headquarters, or substantial operations, within the region; Dallas is home to seven of the nation's largest privately held companies; the region is a top 5 market for most US economic sectors; and 46 Fortune 1000 companies are based here.³

Our North Texas—based team is keen to help address the challenges and opportunities businesses face in our burgeoning region, and we have evolved steadily to support the rapidly growing needs of our clients. At the same time, we are active and involved corporate citizens in wide-ranging philanthropic efforts that serve to bolster the residents of the region we love.

While some of us are homegrown, many in our office have chosen North Texas as home for many of the same reasons so many companies do: quality of life, a winning spirit, and endless prospects for growth. That appreciation for our home also manifests in numerous community philanthropy programs that aid other neighbors in need.

We share a common trait: ingenuity. That means thinking in new ways about familiar ideas, welcoming new approaches, and collaborating with others to recommend innovative ways to solve the toughest problems. By being ingenious, we have earned our reputation for excellence through the caliber of our professionals and service.

Deloitte's North Texas team has helped guide many of the area's most respected organizations through periods of growth and change. And we're always ready for the next challenge.

The eyes of Texas—and the world—are on North Texas.

Deloitte global footprint

In more than 150 countries, Deloitte helps leading organizations take on tough problems and seize novel opportunities. As the world's largest professional services organization, we offer not only specific tools and services, but also the connections among industries, disciplines, and geographies that allow our specific offerings to deliver more than their sum.

Almost every client we serve seems to feel the effects of various global forces such as technology, the changing face of the workforce, and new ways of working. Mapping those factors onto a detailed knowledge of each industry and each client's business generates a three-dimensional understanding and a foundation for action.

Every Deloitte location takes pride in the community where its team members and their families live and work. That's why our organization-wide culture of corporate citizenship is designed to drive measurable change, inspire action, and apply our skills and experience to accelerate positive social impact. Whether it's through work on national issues such as education or veterans' needs, pro bono work, or cleaning up parks on Impact Day, we work alongside our neighbors and colleagues to help make our communities stronger.

There's no substitute for an ally who knows where you've been, where you're headed, and how each step contributes to the journey. That's why many of the world's most admired brands, including more than 85 percent of the Fortune 500 and more than 6,000 private and middle market companies, work with us today.

At Deloitte University, we are developing learning and innovation models that redefine the possible through rapid prototyping, application of new and emerging technologies, and distinctively Deloitte approaches to new and persistent challenges.

Deloitte University— Delivering innovation in all we do

North Texas is also home to Deloitte University (DU), our flagship learning and leadership center. It is the embodiment of our company's commitment to providing enriching experiences for our people—and our clients. On its 700,000-square-foot campus in the community of Westlake, DU hosts approximately 65,000 guests per year and has delivered nearly 900 client experiences to date.

There's a sense of the future at DU. It's a place where our big organization can act small, experiment, and try new things. Teams of professionals, client groups, and thought leaders come here to navigate their way from now to next. Our innovative platforms contribute to wellness and draw on the best thinking from all around our organization to address society's most pressing problems. We are developing learning and innovation models that redefine the possible through rapid prototyping, application of new and emerging technologies, and distinctively Deloitte approaches to new and persistent challenges. In all that we do at DU, we help empower learners and leaders to go beyond business as usual and achieve the extraordinary. That is why DU is a place where leaders can thrive.

Being neighborly

Deloitte is committed to the communities that our people call home, and we are proud to contribute our time and talent to improve the lives of North Texans.

More than 1,100 Deloitte employees annually participate in Impact Day, Deloitte's annual day of volunteerism. On average, we donate over 8,800 hours of charitable service to more than 30 organizations and events. But our contributions aren't limited to a single day; each year, Deloitte North Texas employees volunteer more than 218,000 hours.

Similarly, our Deloitte North Texas team provides an array of nonprofit organizations with pro bono service and skills-based volunteering. Ongoing commitments include:

- United Way of Metropolitan Dallas. Deloitte has earned One Million Dollar+ Campaign fund-raising status for the past 10 years.

- Deloitte/NTPGA Fairway to Success.

Several college scholarships are awarded annually to students from three Dallas-area high schools based on academic performance, extracurricular activities, community involvement, and financial need.

- Girl Scouts of Northeast Texas TEM Center of Excellence

- American Heart Association

- Cristo Rey Dallas College Prep Corporate Work Study Program

- Make-A-Wish® North Texas

At Deloitte, inclusion is a part of our DNA. Our inclusion vision is to attract, retain, and advance a diverse workforce, and strengthen our inclusive culture where all of our people connect, belong, and grow. One key initiative is our Inclusion Councils, which connect people from different functions, backgrounds, and experiences to engage on common passions and interests.

Deloitte is committed to the communities that our people call home, and we are proud to contribute our time and talent to improve the lives of North Texans.

Let's talk.

North Texas has a large, multifaceted business community. It requires a professional services provider with the size and savvy to address marketplace challenges and deliver measurable, sustainable results.

And Deloitte North Texas has been organized to fit the region's unique needs and demands. Our goal is to lead the way toward a stronger economy and healthier society by inspiring our clients to take bold yet calculated steps that result in business decisions that are both strategic and impactful.

While many business innovations involve technology, we firmly believe that meaningful change hinges on ingenuity, too. By thinking in new ways about familiar ideas, we can help clients consider ingenious ideas and approaches that can strike the right balance between risk and reward, and bridge the gap between fearlessness and paralysis.

Around the world, people and organizations see the power and potential of North Texas. We're here to answer that call, offering clients a comprehensive, up-to-date arsenal of tools, resources, and insights that can positively disrupt an ever-changing business landscape.

For any challenge. For any industry. Deloitte North Texas has the knowledge, experience, and innovative thinking to make a difference today and to anticipate what may come tomorrow.

Deloitte North Texas has proven that we can offer the insightful advice and effective action required to succeed here. How can we help your organization? Let's talk.
