MXDR by Deloitte
in Action.

After enduring a double ransomware attack that brought back-office operations to a halt, a large US restaurant franchisee wanted to prevent such a disruption from happening again without having to make large internal cyber investments. MXDR by Deloitte provided the right fit, allowing the company to take advantage of a fully SaaS-based approach for incident detection and response. With a more centralized cyber solution delivered through a Deloitte-managed cloud environment, the company eliminated the need to create a new security operations center — while receiving the advantages of cloud-native capabilities with continual innovations and updates, monitoring, proactive hunting, response, and remediation.
