

Cyber Incident Response

During the 2020-2021 financial year the Australian Cyber Security Centre (ACSC) observed over 67,500 cyber-crime reports and nearly 500 ransomware reports, an increase of almost 15% from the previous financial year<sup>1</sup>. As the cyber threat landscape continues to evolve and digital innovation continues to expand the attack surface for most organisations, it's important to have Cyber Incident Response (CIR) expertise on hand to respond quickly and effectively when cyber incidents occur.

- Are you prepared for a cyber incident?
- Are you experiencing a cyber incident?
- Have you experienced a data breach?

Deloitte can help.

We understand that no matter how prepared you are, an attack can still happen. Our Cyber Incident Response team is here to help you before, during, and after an incident.

As soon as an attack happens, our cyber incident responders and digital forensics specialists will be rapidly deployed to identify what has happened and quickly move ahead with next steps to contain the attack, eradicate the threat and assist with restoring your services. Our goal is to protect you from further attack, and help get you back to business as quickly as possible.

Our Cyber Incident Response doesn't end there. Our specialist teams can work with you after an attack, to assist you in implementing robust security measures and procedures to enhance your posture against any future attacks.
