The Future of Trust

Disclosures on the rise

Unprecedented changes in the workplace, remote working practices, and financial pressures have increased the likelihood of fraud, misconduct, and other unethical behaviour in organisations.

With heightened awareness of societal issues, organisations are under more pressure than ever to protect their reputation by ensuring that any misconduct is identified and addressed in a timely manner.

Concurrently, regulators in New Zealand and across the world have raised the bar for organisations to deal with financial crime and implement disclosure processes - breaches of which can result in significant brand damage and financial penalties.

Disclosures from your people remains one of the most effective counter-measures* to help organisations deal with workplace misconduct. Protect your employees, your organisation, and your reputation by providing secure and trusted channels to report misconduct.

In New Zealand, the Protected Disclosures (Protection of Whistleblowers) Act 2022 reinforces the need to facilitate the disclosure and investigation of serious wrongdoing in the workplace, and to provide protection for employees and others who report concerns.
