Compliance that
powers progress:
The edge for onshore oil & gas

Stay compliant. Stay secure. Stay ahead.

The onshore oil and gas industry operates in a high-risk, high-reward environment. From explosive hazards and environmental threats to cyberattacks on trading systems, one thing is clear: you can't afford to leave risk unmanaged.

Proactive risk management is your competitive edge

With tightening environmental regulations, rising cyber threats, and increasing pressure for operational transparency, now's the time to rethink how your organisation manages risk and compliance.

Build a resilient compliance framework

Success starts with structure. A strong compliance framework means:

- Mapping and breaking down all regulatory requirements (Energy Market Authority, Building and Construction Authority (Singapore), Maritime and Port Authority of Singapore, etc.)
- Assigning clear ownership of compliance tasks
- Automate alerts, track issues, and gain real-time visibility

Stay audit-
ready

Avoid costly
penalties

Streamline your compliance
operations (Second line of defense)

Defend against cyber threats – Before they hit

Your trading platform is a goldmine for cybercriminals. Protect it with:

- Multi-factor authentication (MFA) for all critical systems
- Intrusion detection and prevention systems
- Real-time anomaly detection to catch suspicious behaviour instantly

"If a trader normally executes 10 trades a day but suddenly does 100 — your system should flag it before it becomes a crisis."

Safety, environment & sustainability — Non-negotiables

Mitigate fire and explosion risks through:

- SOPs, checklists, and staff training
- Preventive maintenance and equipment audits
- Environmental procedures and audits for safe waste disposal

Why wait for an incident?

Start future-proofing your operations now.
