Application Guidelines

18. Can you provide more information on what you mean by:

• Registration number

A unique combination of numbers and, in some cases, letters. The company registration number (also known as the company number or registration number) is used to identify a company and verify the fact that it is an entity registered officially.

• Subsidiary of another company

A company with stock that is more than 50% controlled by another company, which is usually referred to as the parent company or the holding company.

• Own proprietary technology***

Each participant of the ranking must own proprietary intellectual property or proprietary technology, sold to customers in products that contribute to a majority of the company's operating revenues. It has to meet the following criteria:

Own proprietary technology that contributes to a significant portion of the company's operating revenues.

- Manufacture a technology related product.
- Devote a significant proportion of operating revenues to research and development of technology.
- Be technology intensive, or use unique technology to solve problems.

• Gross operating revenue

We only take into account gross operating revenues generated as a result of the company's daily business activities, which means revenues posted from the sale of the company's products and services, excluding other operating and financial revenues and changes in the stock of products.

* Proprietary technology is any combination of processes, tools, techniques or systems of interrelated connections that are the property of a business or an individual. These combinations provide a benefit or competitive advantage to the owners of proprietary technologies. Companies that are capable of developing useful proprietary technologies in-house are rewarded with a valuable asset: they can either use it exclusively or profit from the sale of licensing of their technology to other parties. Access to valuable proprietary technologies can also be purchased, but this option is often costlier and comes with greater restrictions on the use of underlying technologies.
