Digital HR

Customised electronic signing and delivery of employment documents

As the demands for efficiency and speed of HR processes increase, so does the need for digital transformation. We offer our clients a comprehensive set of services that enable them to convert a significant part of their HR agenda into electronic documents, fundamentally modernise their HR departments and keep up with current trends in the field of human capital.

Electronic signing and digitalisation of HR processes

- Electronic administration, delivery, and signing of documents are some of the fundamental pillars of digitalisation. Would you like to implement a paperless office in your company, reduce the amount of paperwork and sign employment documents electronically? With us, you can! We will help you select appropriate processes for digitalization and provide support for subsequent implementation of the solution – all in full compliance with legal requirements and tailored to your needs.
- Electronic signing is just the first step – thanks to digital transformation in general, your other HR processes can also become faster, more accurate, more user-friendly as well as less costly and time-consuming. That is why we offer you support in digitising personnel files, changing the organisation of HR (founding and setting up the collaboration of hybrid and online teams), or converting training to the digital format. Thanks to us, you can modernise HR management throughout the entire employee lifecycle.

How can we help you?

- We analyse your company's HR processes and find out which ones are the most suitable for digitalisation
- We identify specific risks based on an analysis of legal and technological options for electronic signing and delivery, digitalisation of personnel files, and other HR processes
- We provide support in implementing technological solutions
- We set up electronic signing for multiple countries, fully compliant with foreign regulations
- We take into account the requirements of your employees

Make use of our services and create an HR department of the future today! We will guide you through the digital transformation process from A to Z.
