

Threat Hunting (TH)

Cyber Incident Response

Proactively look for signs of adversaries being present in your network. Use the existing data to look for anomalies. Understand where weaknesses exist and are critical, this gives the organisation an edge to be proactive and fix the problems before they escalate.

Overview

Deloitte’s threat hunting service is designed to provide you peace of mind. We take the responsibility of following what is happening on the cyber space and to translate these findings to meaningful threat hunting queries.

The threat hunting service is leveraging Deloitte global threat intelligence production and the knowledge of the incidents we have seen within our clients. This gives us a huge advantage while detecting suspicious activity in your environment.

The Deloitte Threat Hunters are experienced Cyber Security professionals. The hunters have been hunting for years with specialties from blue and red team under their belts.

In addition to regular hunting reports, the threat hunting service can initiate the incident response process as needed and the hunting queries are shared for further automation.
