

FinTech, Brexit and Employment in Ireland

Response to disruption

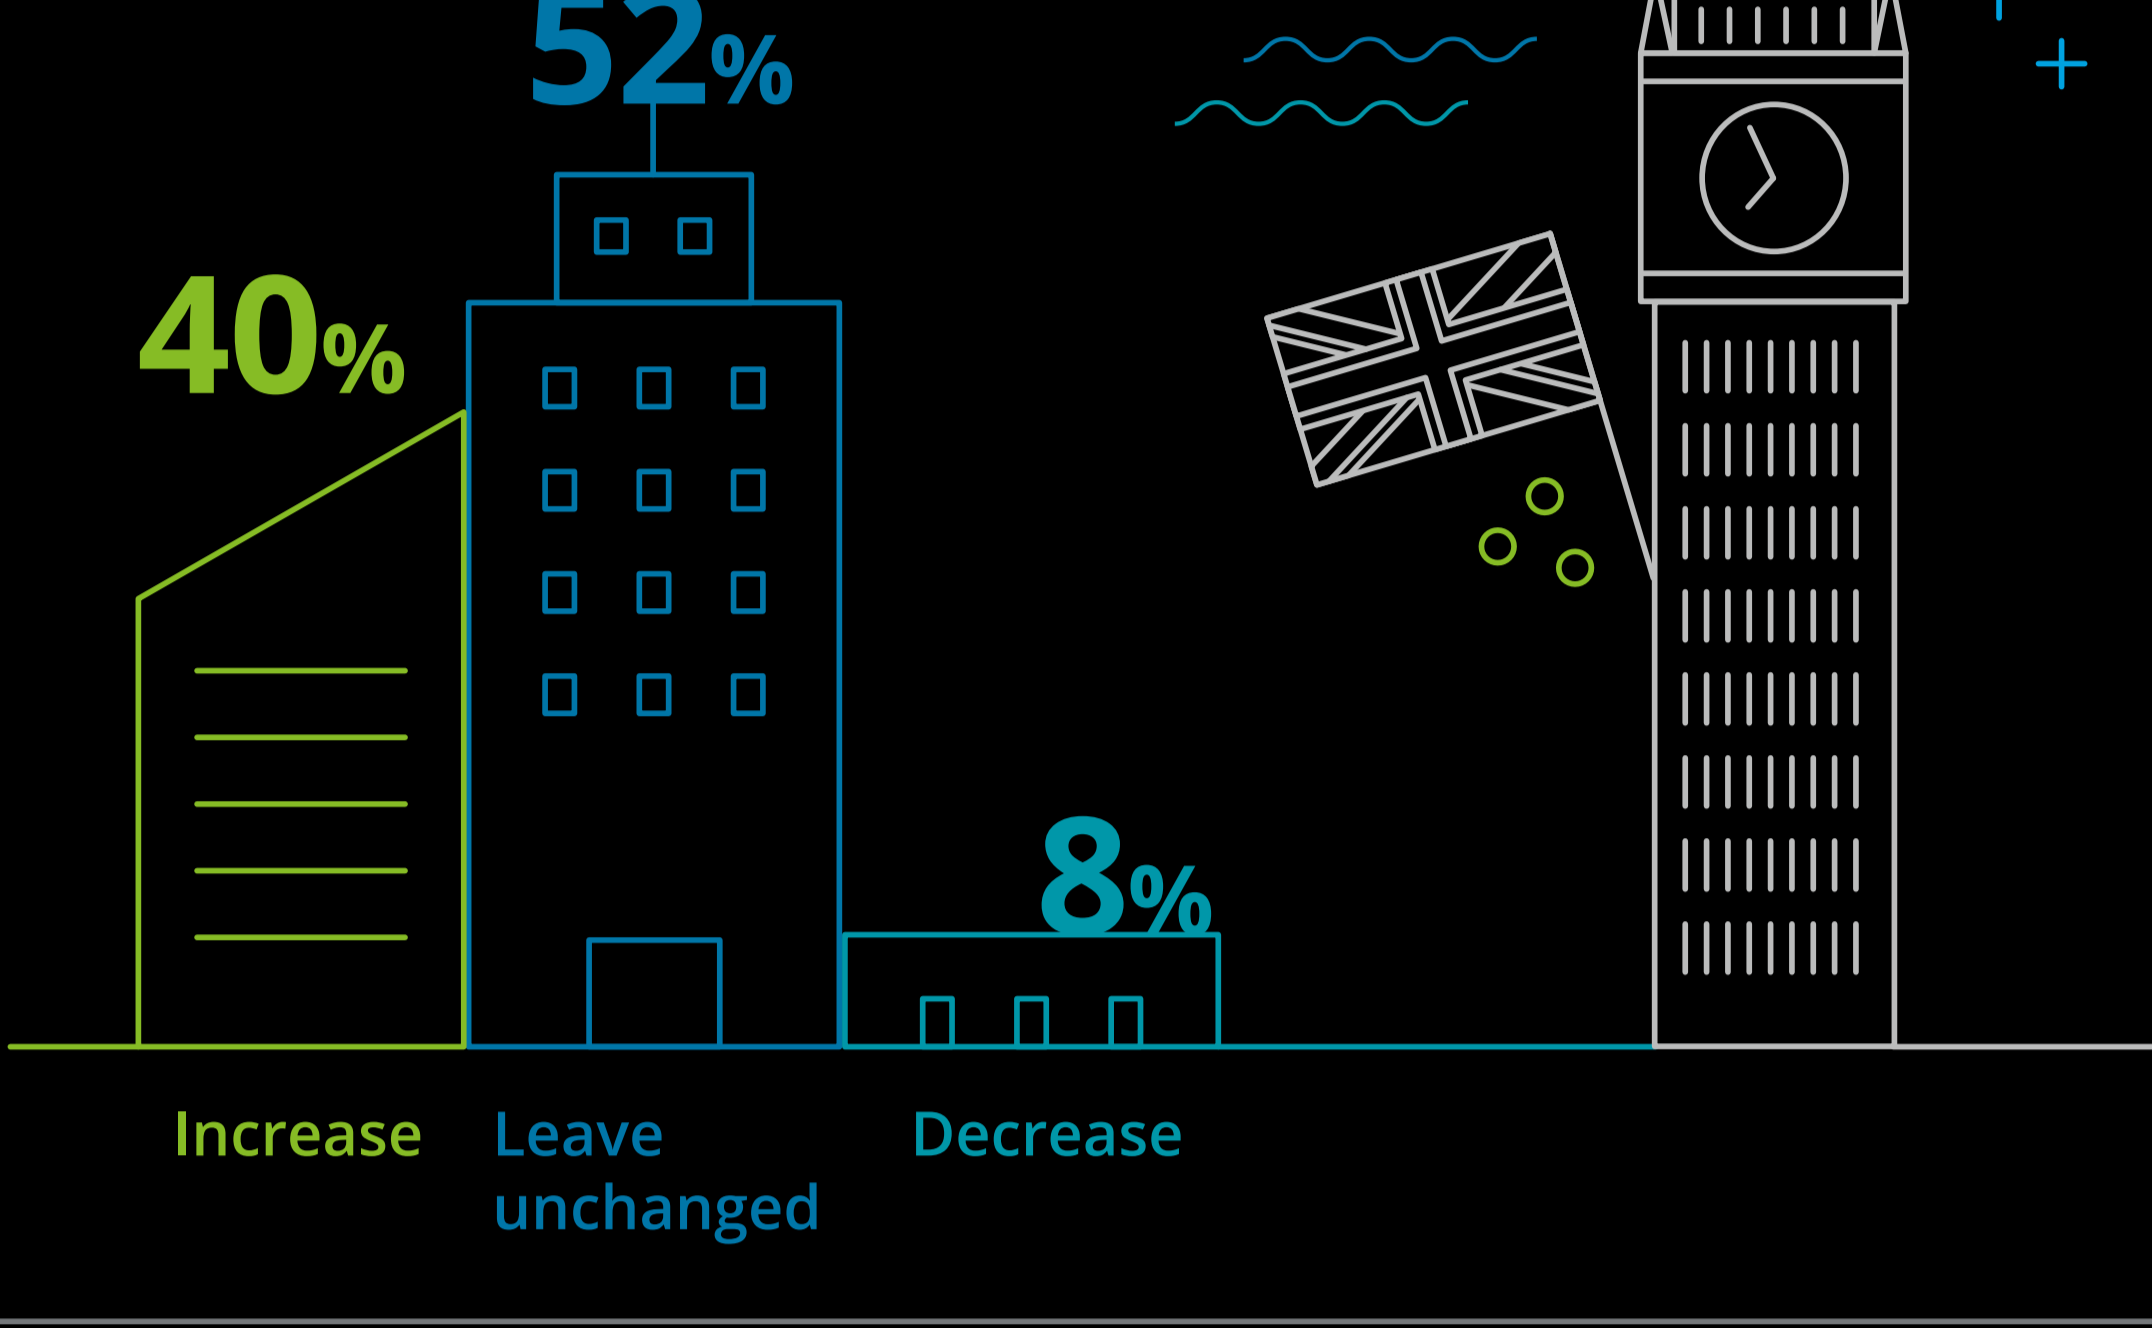

Financial Services sector in Ireland is going through an unprecedented change as a result of increased regulation, uncertainty from Brexit and the rise of FinTech. Deloitte and Finance Dublin have partnered on a Research Report to explore strategies of leading IFS companies in addressing new industry developments and driving innovation within their organisations.

Key findings

The firms surveyed in this report represent 51% of the total employment in the IFS sector. Key findings from this report include:

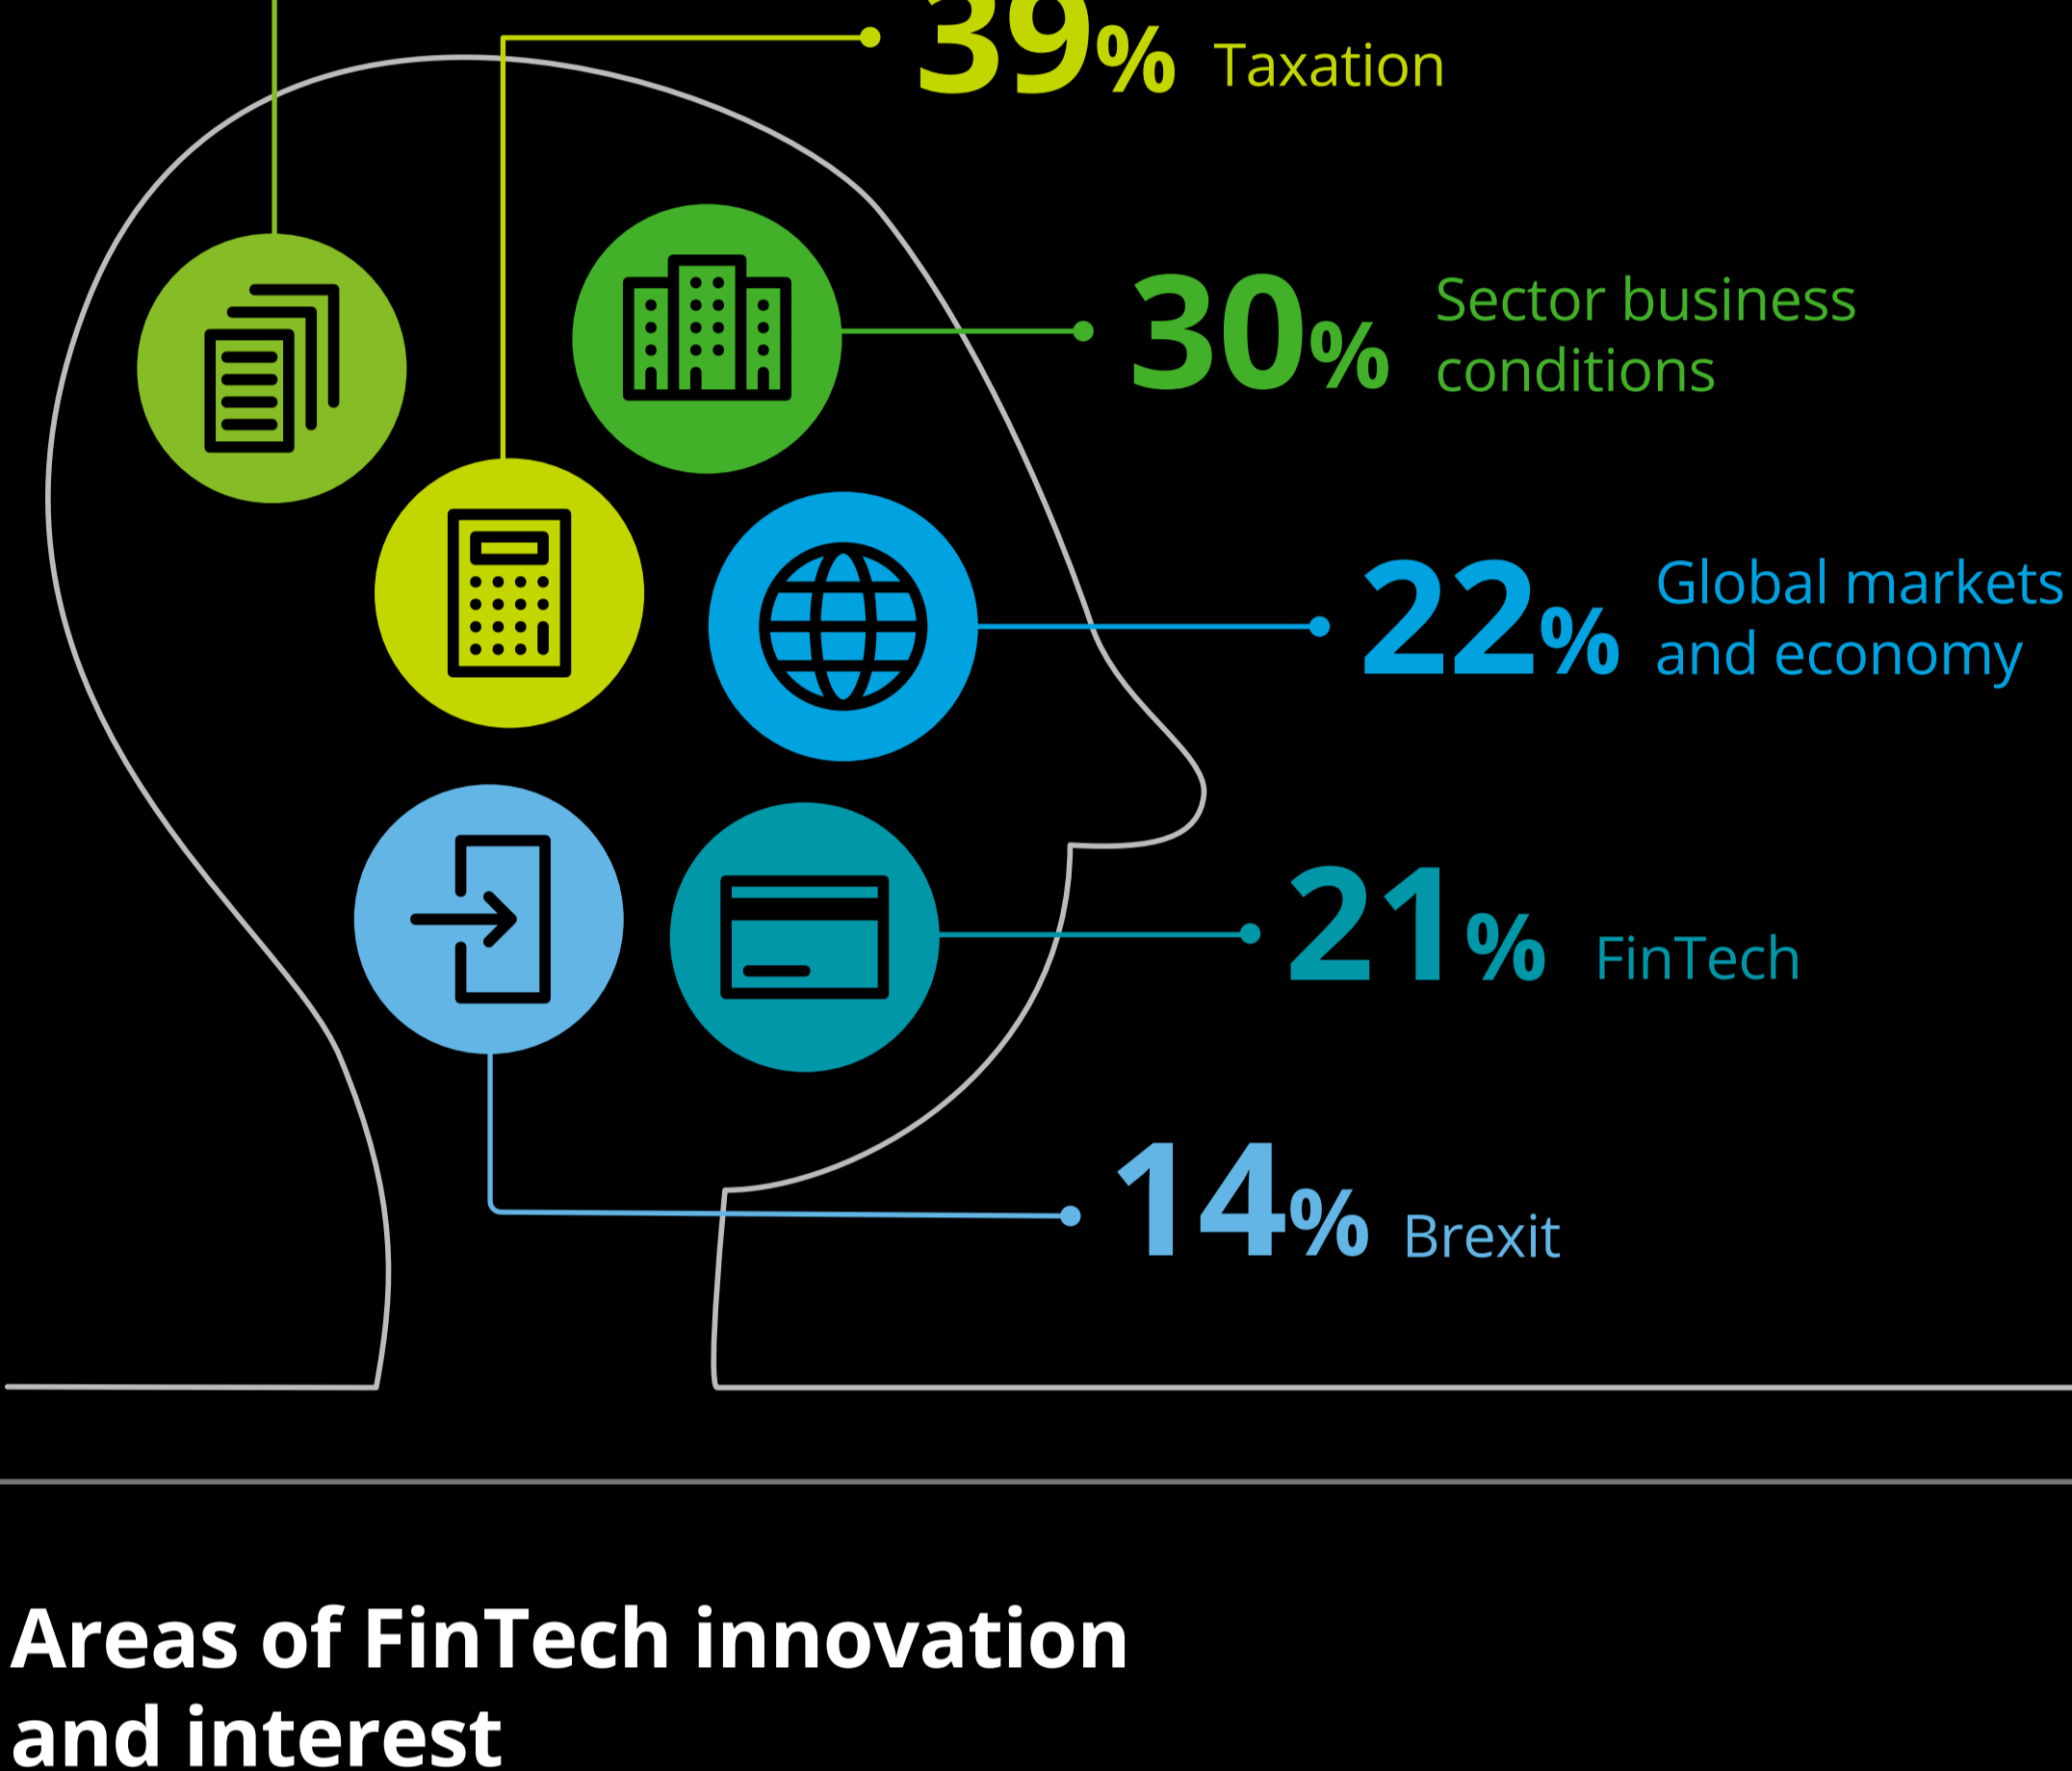

Expected impact of Brexit on employment in Irish IFS companies

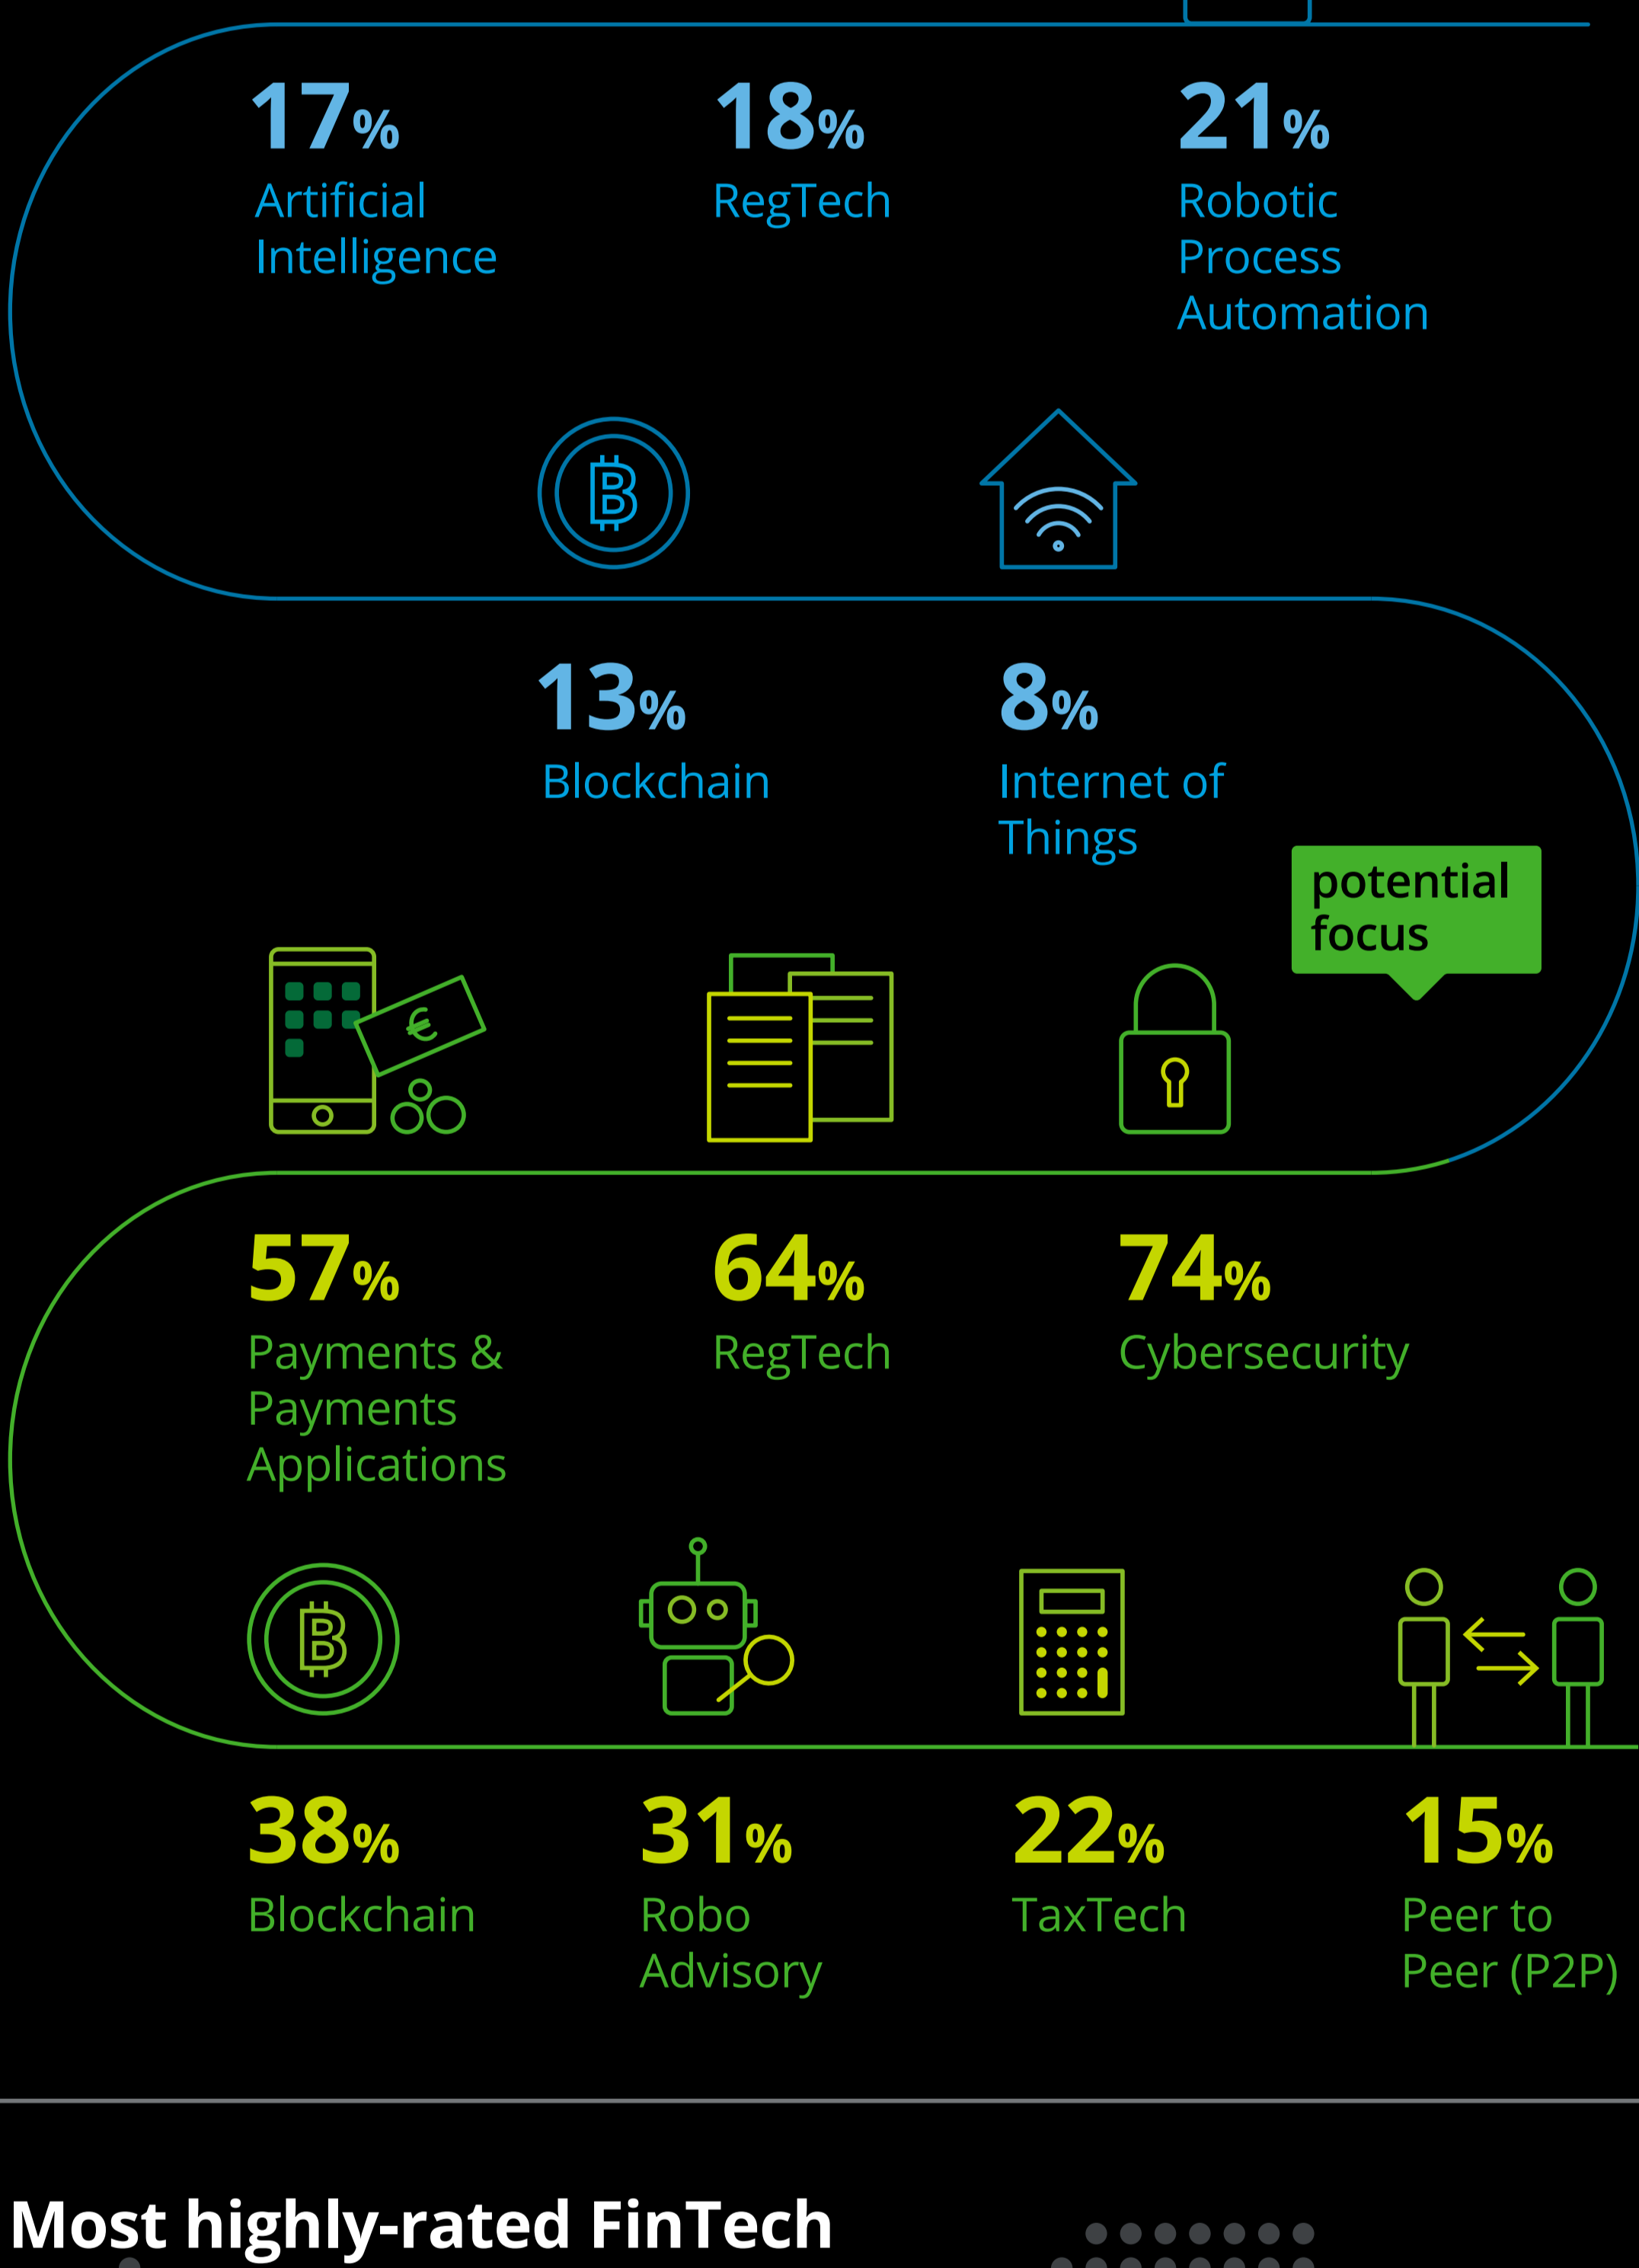

Most important areas of concern for IFS companies

The most critical issues facing IFS industry (rated as "very high" by responders) are:

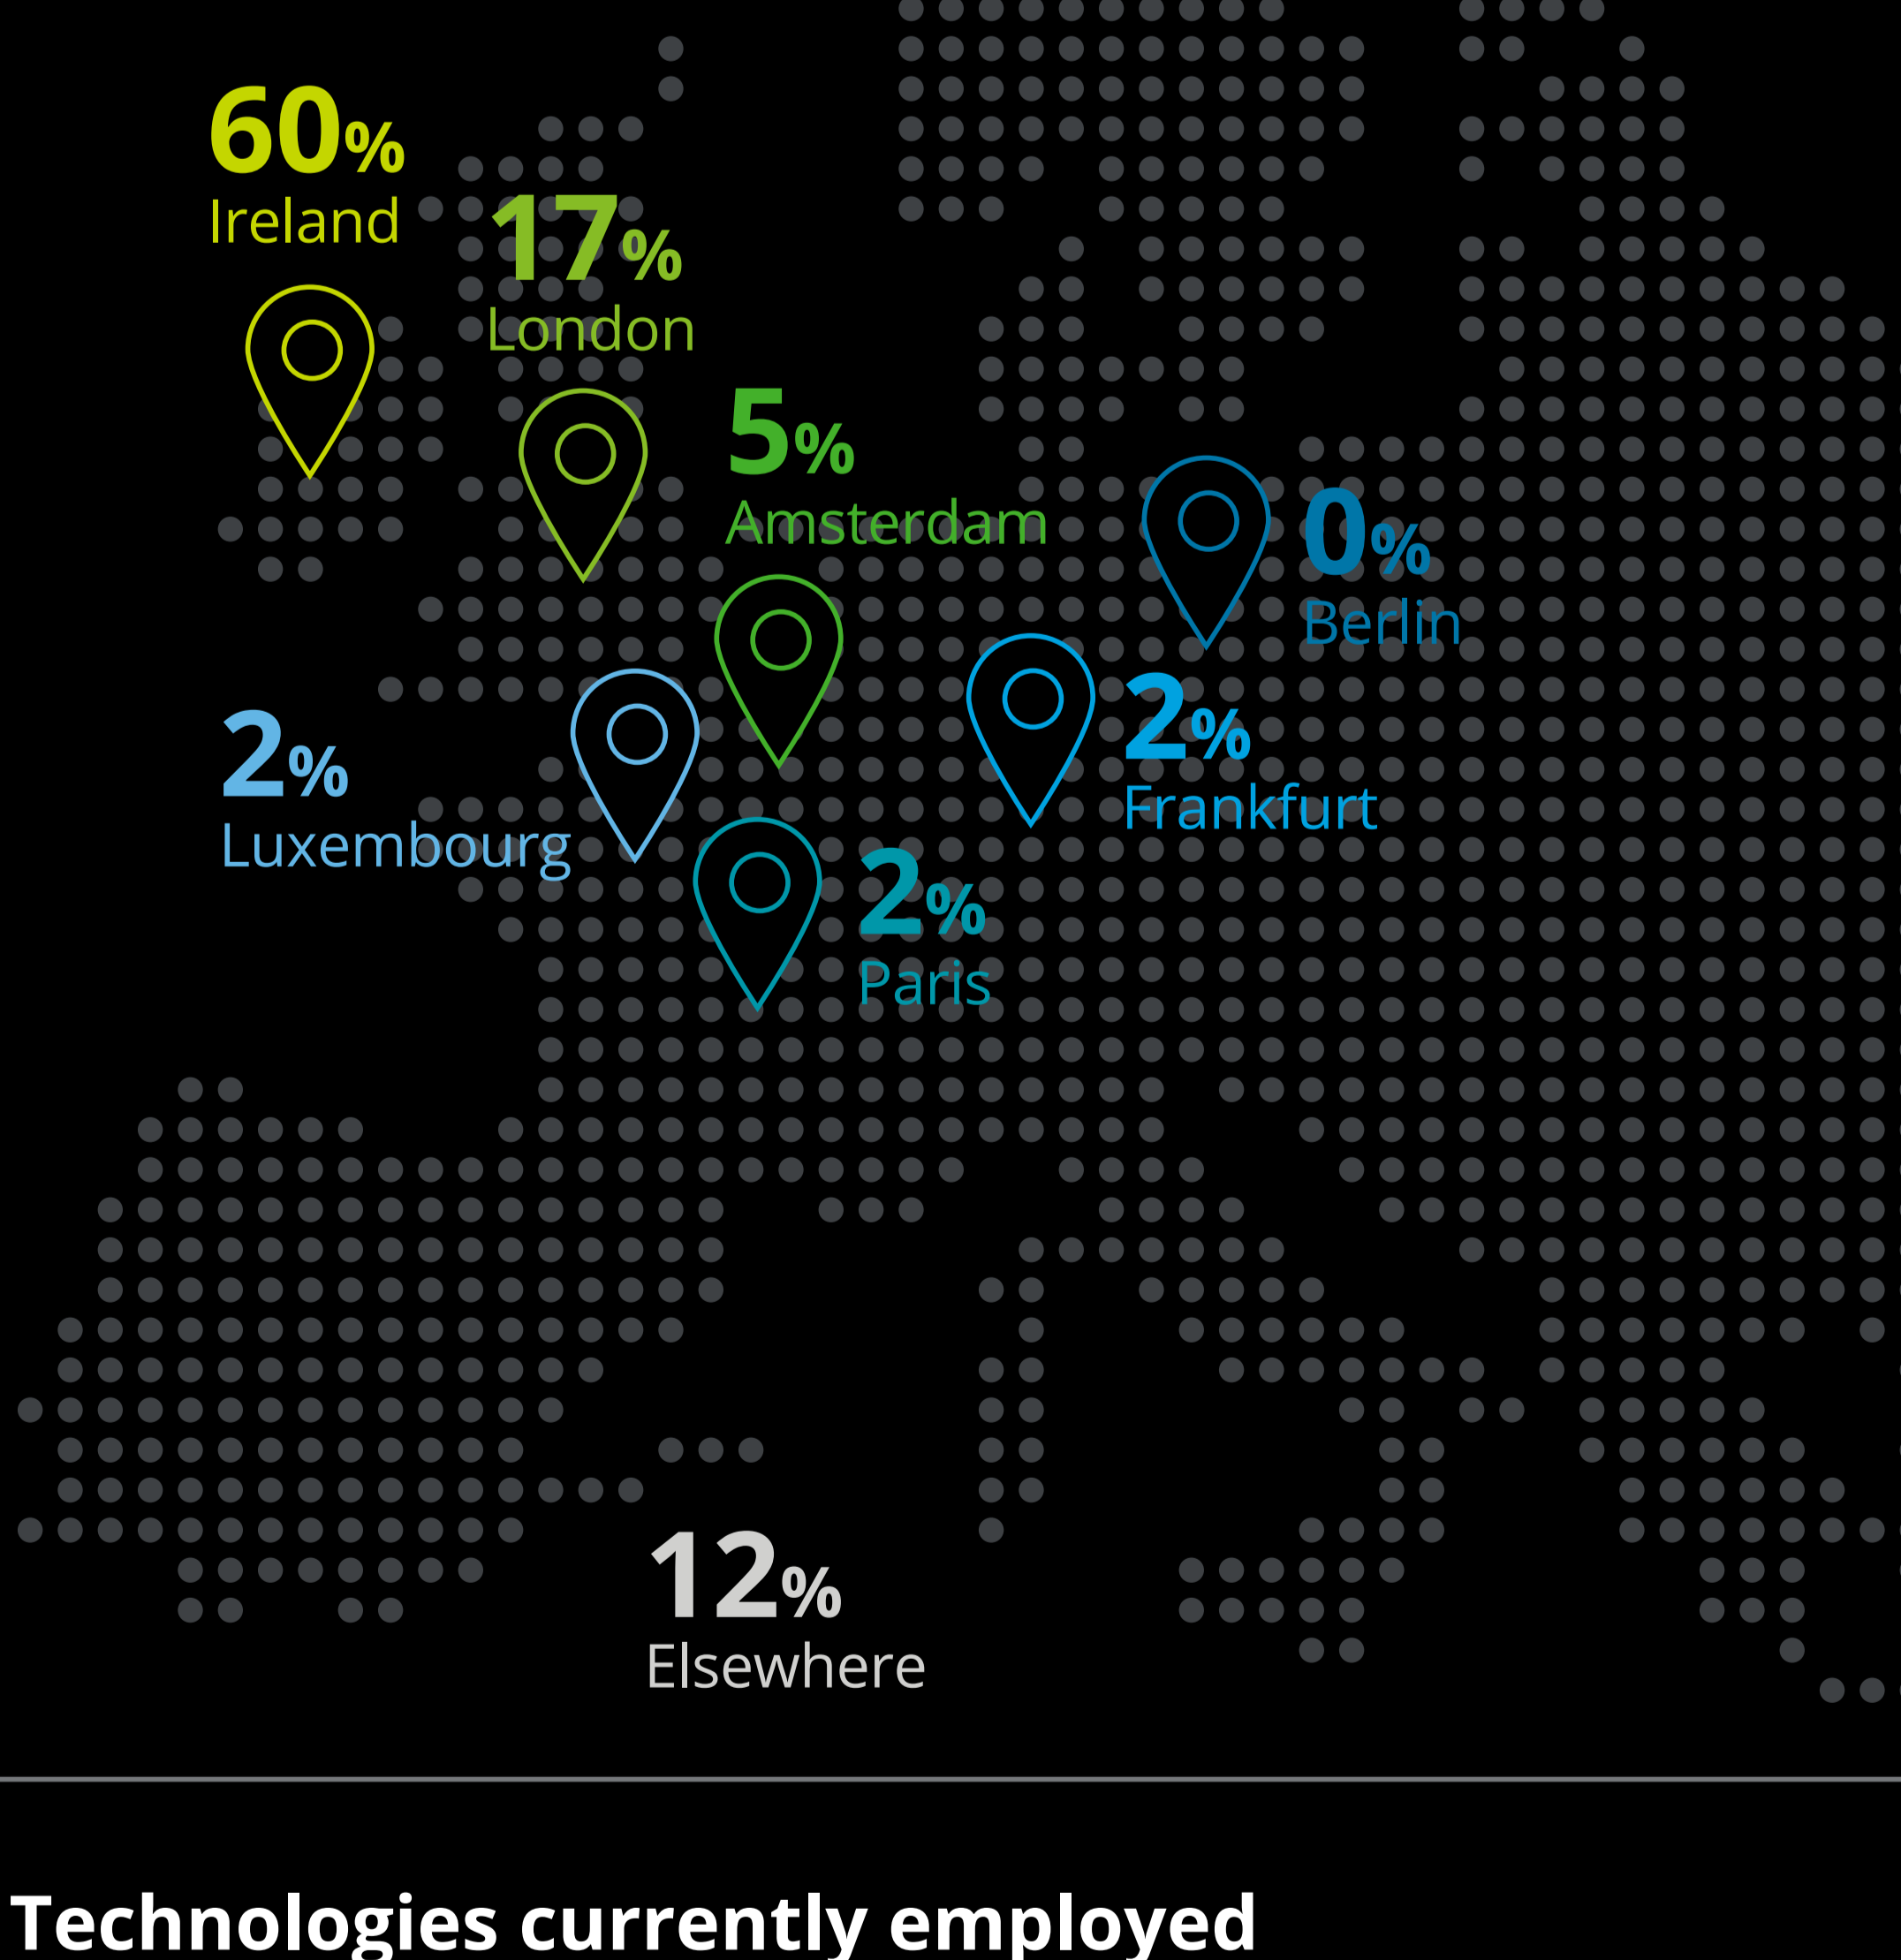

Areas of FinTech innovation and interest

Current areas of FinTech focus in Ireland and main areas of FinTech potential and interest:

Most highly-rated FinTech locations in Europe

Ireland is #1 European FinTech location for 60%, followed by London at 17%

Technologies currently employed in respondent companies

