

On demand expert support for accounting & finance functions

Our clients often face both incidental and systemic challenges regarding human resources, such as:

Too many obligations delegated to the accounting & finance teams

Increased workload related to new projects, such as process/data migration, organizational transformation or ERP implementation

Lack of human resources, caused by vacations, maternity leaves, rotation, long recruitment process, lack of required qualification available resources

We can:

Provide fast and flexible specialist support involving a team of accounting, finance and tax experts

Increase stability and security of accounting, tax and finance processes and functions

Ensure continuity of team's operation and processes if faced by lack of specialised personnel or temporary substitution needed

Reduce your internal workload

How can we help you?

The labour market dynamics and a variety of factors beyond firm's control may result in temporary shortages of specialised staff.

At the same time, given the current legal conditions, enterprises have to continuously adjust to ongoing legal regulations and practices applied by authorities. The growing number of obligations results in additional challenges related to the performance of routine tasks.

Changing technological environment continuously requires implementation of new ERPs and re-engineering of the existing accounting & finance processes.

In response to our clients' needs, we offer flexible support of our specialist team staffed by individuals with vast experience including the performance of key responsibilities in accounting, finance, tax and payroll. Our assistance includes both operational and managerial responsibilities - temporary and long-term.

The services we offer may include:

Under the proposed model, the Deloitte team remains at the disposal of your accounting & finance teams, at the same time being able to refer to the experience of other Deloitte experts and our global network. This allows developing an operational model that is effective in terms of quality and costs, both when performing simple, but time-consuming tasks and looking for solutions for more complex ones.

- ✓ We offer flexible temporary or long-term support
- ✓ We offer fast step-in of the required qualification experts to immediately tackle existing needs
- ✓ We do not offer an expert alone, we offer an expert with the full support of the broad team including accounting, finance & tax knowledge
