Deloitte Alumni Colleagues for life

Alumni Newsletter

January 2026

Dear Alumni,

As we begin a new year, we are pleased to share with you the latest edition of our Deloitte Alumni Newsletter. In this issue, you will find an interview with retired partner Laurent Berliner, alongside reflections from our 17th Deloitte Private Art & Finance Conference, held last November in New York. During the conference, we presented the findings of the 9th edition of our Art & Finance Report and heard from panellists who explored the themes currently shaping the thinking of wealth management professionals.

Our recently published seventh Impact Report reflects the solid growth delivered in 2025 and, more importantly, the continued trust our clients place in the breadth and depth of what we do and in the people who do it. It also highlights the contribution our firm continues to make across a wide range of societal issues, not as an abstract ambition, but through expertise applied with judgement and responsibility. That contribution is the result of many voices and many journeys, including those of our alumni community, whose role remains an integral part of our collective history.

The past year also carried particular significance. We marked 75 years of Deloitte in Luxembourg and 180 years worldwide. These milestones are not a celebration of longevity for its own sake.

They speak to continuity of responsibility. The history of Deloitte in Luxembourg is one of stewardship, passed from one generation to the next, reshaped by changing realities while remaining anchored in enduring values. Adapting has never meant losing what defines us; it has meant allowing those values to express themselves clearly as circumstances evolve.

In that same spirit, following the recent election, we now enter a period of transition that matters for the life of our firm. Over the coming months, we will work closely together to ensure that this transition is thoughtful, well prepared, and firmly grounded in continuity. We approach the period ahead with gratitude for what has been achieved and confidence in what lies before us, mindful that progress, when it endures, is always built together.

We wish you a prosperous 2026.

Kind regards,

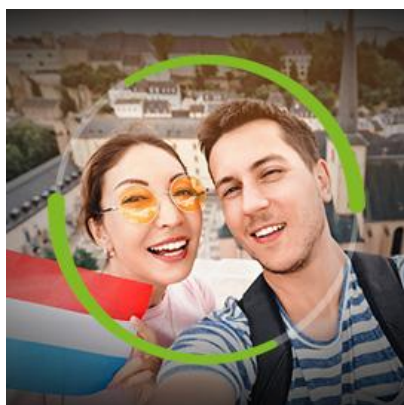

John Psaila
CEO-Managing Partner

Managing Partner-elect
