Adama Sanneh

Chief Executive Officer
Moleskine Foundation

Adama's career integrates expertise in management and cultural studies, shaping his role in designing institutions for social change. As CEO of the Moleskine Foundation, he is deeply committed to harnessing creativity for social impact, focusing on building a robust ecosystem that supports cultural and creative organizations worldwide while placing culture and creativity at the heart of the development agenda.

Adama's journey began in Milan, where he studied Linguistic and Cultural Mediation at the University of Milan. His work has spanned rural development in East Africa and social innovation with the United Nations. He furthered his education with a Master in Public Management from Bocconi School of Management and an MBA from the University of Geneva.

Adama also serves as a Board Member of the Philanthropy Europe Association and shares his insights as a TEDx speaker. His work continues to explore the powerful intersection of entrepreneurship, culture, and social progress, contributing to new models of public value.
