Japanese Services Group: JSG

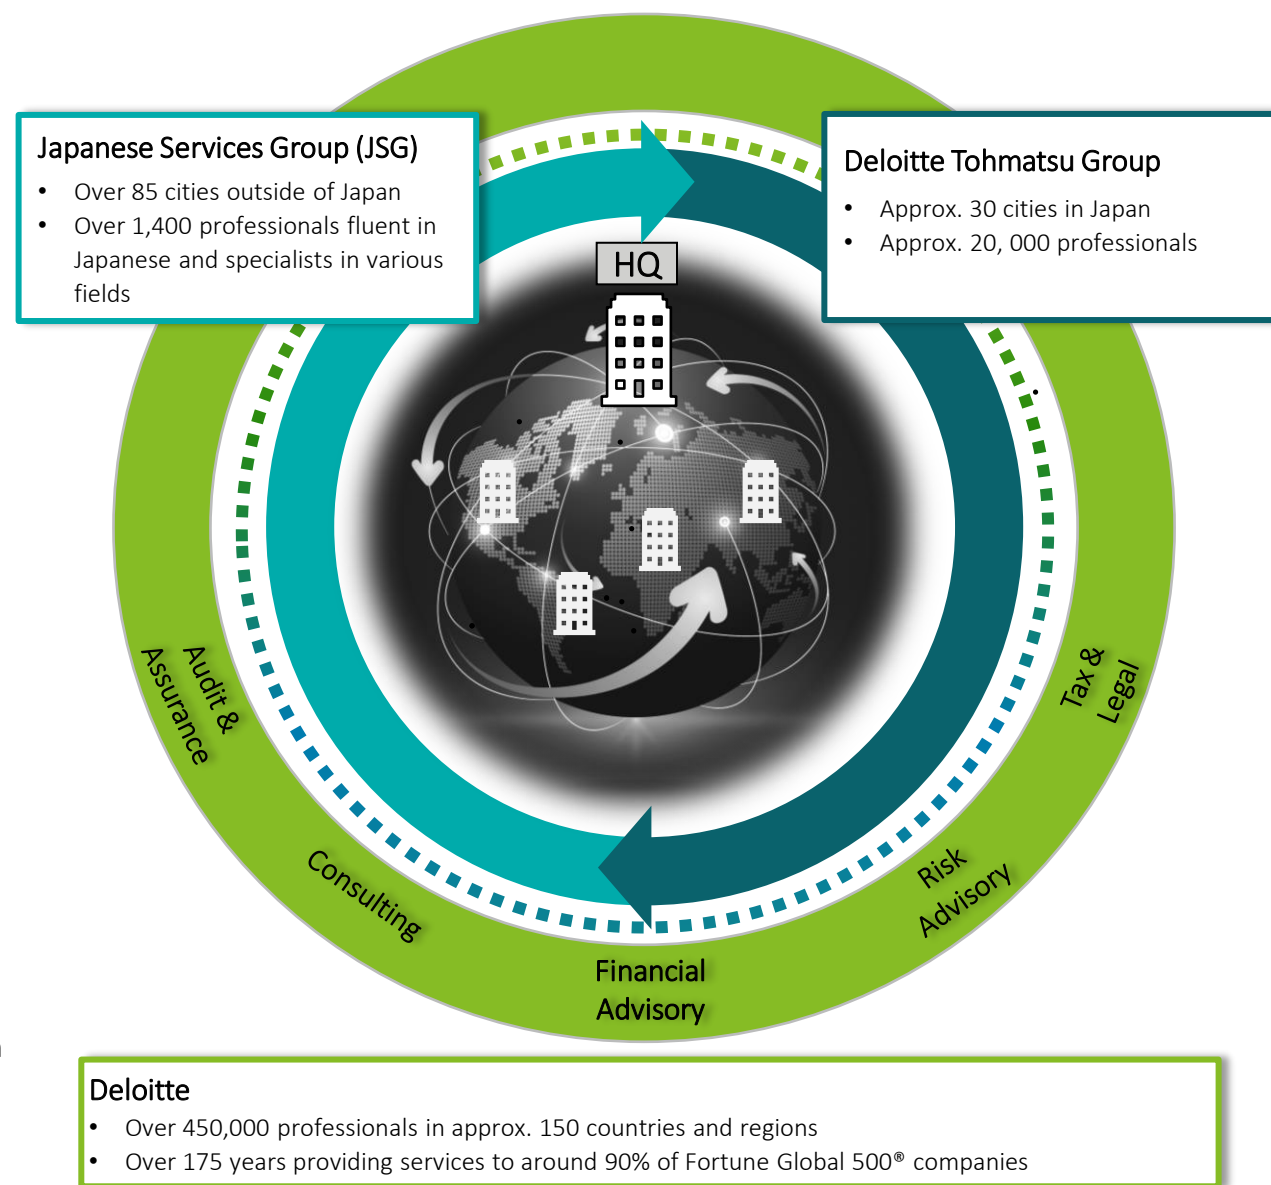

We support your overseas business from the perspective of both the Japanese head offices and overseas subsidiaries

The Japanese Services Group (“JSG”) was launched in 1975 as a professional group dedicated to addressing the unique needs of Japanese companies expanding their business overseas. Since its launch, we have been working to provide multifaceted and comprehensive support to help our clients address the increasingly complex and advanced business challenges faced by Japanese companies.

When expanding business overseas, companies must have many different perspectives to consider environmental changes and various types of risks that impact business in both Japan and overseas. Japanese head offices responsible for making decisions must also have sufficient knowledge about overseas finance, tax, labor, legal affairs, and local systems and customs. Furthermore, smooth communication between Japanese head offices and overseas subsidiaries is essential for a business’s global advancement and sustainable growth.

JSG uses the best possible combination of Deloitte resources such as its network, expertise, industry knowledge, and Japanese-speaking bilingual professionals to support our Japanese client companies in operating their business both in Japan and around the world.

- Deloitte Tohmatsu Group is the core of Japanese Services Group (“JSG”).
- JSG is a global organization holding over 1,350 professionals fluent or bilingual in Japanese, including expatriates from Japan. Its members also consist of specialists in various fields who are well versed in Japanese business practices and culture, enabling it to provide Japanese companies with the highest level of service.
