

Customer Breach Support

A Deloitte managed service

Notifying, supporting and protecting your customers through a data breach

Protecting your customers, your brand and your reputation

The value of a planned breach response

With high profile reports of cyber incidents on the rise and against a backdrop of heightened regulatory scrutiny, few organisations would dispute the value of a pre-planned, customer-centric response to the immediate aftermath of a data breach.

A breach puts your customers at risk of identity theft and fraud. It damages the trust, confidence and loyalty they have in your organisation. It threatens your reputation, your customer base and ultimately your revenue. Even the most well governed organisations can be caught off-guard by increasingly sophisticated cyber attacks.

Deloitte's Customer Breach Support service helps clients minimise the impact of a data breach – by putting your customers at the heart of your response and hand holding them through the days and weeks following an incident.

Our comprehensive offering includes customer breach notification plans and communications, and the scalable infrastructure and trained resource to engage, support and protect your customers – and thus your organisation – through the crisis.

A planned response means...

Protecting your reputation

Customer trust and loyalty are fragile and during a crisis depend on how swiftly and effectively an organisation responds to protect the needs its customers.

Failure to do the right thing – keeping them well informed, supported and provisioned with appropriate identity protection tools and advice – could irreparably damage that trust and loyalty.

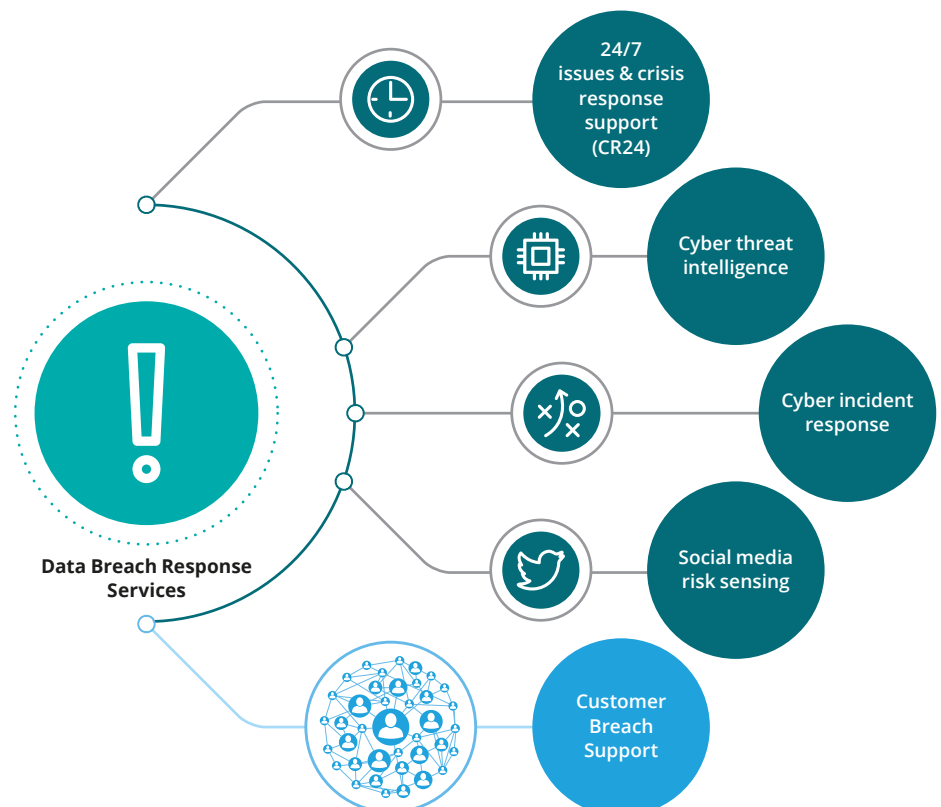

Complying with regulation

The General Data Protection Regulation in Europe mandates that all organisations which process data and offer goods in Europe are in scope.

Organisations must:

- Report a data breach to the appropriate Regulator within 72 hours
- Have appropriate plans in place to address the breach
- Notify every affected customer without undue delay

Containing the impact of a data breach

In the event of a breach

An effective data breach response is by its very nature both complex and logistically challenging. When disaster strikes and a breach is uncovered there is little time and rarely the capacity within most organisations to deal with the immediate internal and external impacts whilst simultaneously continuing with 'business as usual' operations.

In our experience, there are five key challenges an organisation faces in the event of a data breach:

Capacity

Surge capacity must be available at short notice to offer the end customers identity repair and protection, without disrupting an organisation's day-to-day business

Speed

Mobilisation of the appropriate outbound customer notification and inbound customer support processes according to the timelines expected by the Regulator and customers

Communications

Appropriate communication channels, customer messaging, FAQs, call scripting to reach and support customers

Knowledge

Relevant specialist resource to support customers with identity protection and repair, credit monitoring and fraud alerting

Coordination

Managing and coordinating the required infrastructure at pace, on top of business as usual

Data breach impacts 110 million customers worldwide

Data compromised:

110 million customer names, addresses, e-mail addresses, telephone numbers, credit and debit card numbers

Impact on company:

Cost of $236 million including:

- Reputation: 10% drop in share prices
- Customer base: 46% drop in year on year sales for that quarter
- Loss of Chief Executive Officer
- An additional $100 million spent on security post-breach

...the [data] controller shall communicate the personal data breach to the data subject without undue delay...

The General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR)
Article 34, "Communication of a personal data breach to the data subject"
