

DebateMate: Deloitte Yearbook 2026

0:33

Without any further ado, welcome in the speedings.

Today's been pretty unexpected, so I've walked in expecting to see a a full on presentation and I'll even start with a bunch of kids come out.

It's been fantastic, probably one of my most enjoyable Deloitte afternoons, working with younger individuals and seeing how excited they are about some of the same challenges we face on a daily basis, but also some of the big issues coming towards us with things like AI and tech.

1:05

It's been super cool, actually, the biggest landing point.

1:09

I definitely say critical thinking is really important when it comes to problems and solutions.

1:14

You need to think about all the perspectives, especially since we did a starter before everything and that helped U.S.

1:19

Open our minds to different perspectives and ideas that would help us see the bigger picture.

1:25

I'm just amazed by the students that came.

1:28

They're so full of energy and enthusiasm.

1:30

Time has flown.

1:31

They've been really, really energising and encouraging.

1:35

And please scan that QR code and then decide which team you think deserves to be crowned.

1:41

I'll win it.

1:54

I think we should all just take a moment to recognise how incredible the students were.

1:58

Thank you for being here.

2:00

Thank you for challenging us and keeping us on our toes.

2:02

A big round of applause to all the fabulous students.
