Views from our leaders

Ryan Maupin, Managing Director

One of the most rewarding experiences as a leader is watching colleagues grow and evolve in their respective careers. In working in the Turnaround & Restructuring (T&R) industry for over 20 years, I've had the pleasure of working with some of the most talented, intelligent, and driven restructuring professionals. I've learned through the years that to achieve the level of PPMD in T&R, it's usually a longer process than other practice areas for a reason. There is immense amount of experience, skill, and creative grit necessary to guide companies and their stakeholders through restructuring processes, or in some instances, true crisis situations.

I've known for some time that we would one day be promoting Wanya du Perez and Matt Fleming to PPMD. We witnessed the talent, drive, and leadership in these individuals during their years of service at the firm.

Today, I'm so very pleased to announce that Wanya du Preez and Matt Fleming have earned their promotions to PPMD.

Wanya du Preez started her professional career as an auditor in the Deloitte South African member firm where she qualified as a Chartered Accountant. After completing her MBA, Wanya joined the Restructuring Services team in Johannesburg. She later relocated to the United States, where she assumed the role of a manager and familiarized herself with a new set of insolvency regulations. Wanya initially focused on restructuring work and later worked with a Partner on a newer working capital scope for a T&R client. Her interest in cash and working capital became a passion for Wanya, as such she worked hard, honed her craft, and became a trusted leader in the T&R practice.

Matt Fleming started his career in Deloitte & Touche LLP's Audit & Assurance practice. He made the transition to T&R bringing a core accounting skill set to the T&R practice. Matt worked extremely hard over his time in T&R to develop skills not only in fresh start accounting, but also managed exit services, debtor advisory services (Chapter 11 preparation and supporting interim management professionals), claims management, and statutory filing requirements needed in Chapter 11. Matt has worked on some of the largest and complex Chapter 11 cases Deloitte has seen over the last several years. He has also obtained his Certified Public Accountant license and Certified Insolvency & Restructuring Advisor certification.

I couldn't be prouder of these two individuals.
